

"There is no obstacle for peace as all human beings are naturally peaceful. For human beings to realise this essential aspect of their nature the mindful practise of peaceful compassion and love is good to include in all the wonderful situations that challenge our best and most beautiful actions. Peace begins with the little steps that we take and expands when we inspire everyone else we know to take those same little steps."